Architecture is a critical strategic function, not an obscure technology discipline. But its practice is often viewed as complex and impenetrable.

By removing the noise, Konvergent reimagines Architecture consulting. Whatever the organisational challenge, we will help solve it – and then illuminate that solution with striking visuals that will make senior stakeholders sit up and take notice.

At Konvergent we focus on what's best for our clients. We are a team of helpful, empathetic people who offer high EQ as well as IQ. And our advice has the objectivity that comes from having no vendor partnerships (nor any other downstream agenda).

Over the last 5 years we have grown and evolved to become a highly resilient business and an emerging challenger to the established big 4 consultancies. For us, the next 5 years is about building a business that becomes the reference point for Architecture services in the UK and we invite you to join them in its pioneering journey and ambitions.

We are driven to realise the full potential of Architecture, are you?
